Many Boxers Make Big Money in Ring, But Few Have Any Left When They Quit the Fight Game

Saving Their Bankroll Harder Than Getting It for Majority of Fighters—Thrifty Boxers Are Exception, but There Have Been Glove Artists Who Have Shown Good Business Sense and Have Retired from Ring Able to Live in Comfort on Their Earnings—Some Have Been Successful and Have Prospered in Other Lines After Laying Mitts Aside

BY GEORGE A. BARTON
(Sports Editor, Minneapolis Tribune)

BOXERS drift into various occupations after leaving the fistic game. Those who are thrifty usually get into some well paying business, while others experience difficulty in obtaining the necessities of life. Many of them die broke as the result of spending their ring earnings with fair-weather friends. Making money appears to be an easy task for the majority of top-notch fighters. Saving it is their hardest task.

George A. Barton

Few pugilists have retired from the ring with enough money to live comfortably. Among those who have accomplished this feat are Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion; Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion; Mike Gibbons, the uncrowned middleweight champion, and Packey McFarland, former king of the welterweights. Even these fortunate boxers are not given to loafing. Jeffries owns and operates a big cattle farm near Los Angeles. Ritchie is engaged in the haberdashery business in San Francisco. Mike Gibbons owns two large apartment buildings in St. Paul and is actively engaged in other lines of business in addition to being in partnership with Mike Collins in the handling of a string of fighters.

Packey McFarland is said to have saved about $100,000 of his ring earnings. He married the daughter of a wealthy brewer of Joliet, Ill., in 1917. Packey's father-in-law died shortly afterward, leaving the McFarlands close to half a million. Packey is engaged in business in Joliet and is a bank director.

Tommy Ryan Well Fixed

Tommy Ryan did not fight in the day of fat purses, but the former middleweight champion was wise enough to save his money and invest it in real estate in Syracuse, N. Y. Ryan also swelled his bank account by conducting a boxing club in Syracuse for a number of years. Recently he sold out his holdings and moved to California, where he is taking life easy on a fruit ranch.

Billy Papke, another exholder of the middleweight championship, salted away his coin and is comfortably fixed. With his wife and kiddies he is living in comfort on a fruit ranch near Los Angeles.

Jim Corbett is another champion who is well fixed. The once king of boxers made big money in the ring and hung onto it. Between bouts, Corbett appeared in various theatrical productions owned by his manager, Billy Brady, and added to his bank account in a substantial manner. Since retiring from the ring for good in 1903, Corbett has devoted all of his time to the stage and has become a pleasing actor. He also fattens his bankroll by writing sport stories.

Tom Sharkey some years ago went broke fighting a case brought against him in New York, but afterward made close to $50,000 in the saloon business in San Francisco, and is said to have more than doubled the "fifty grand" by being lucky in calling the turn in horse races. Sharkey never was a spender. They had to take his money from him by legal process. It is a cinch he will hang onto what he's got now and it never will be necessary to stage a benefit for the former sailor.

George (Kid) Lavigne, one of the two greatest lightweights of all time, is broke and is now eking out an existence by working as a day laborer in his home town of Saginaw, Mich. You will notice that I called Lavigne one of the two greatest lightweights. The late Joe Gans was the other. Poor Joe died broke in Arizona about twelve years ago. Tuberculosis finished him. Friends raised a fund to send Gans to Arizona, despite the fact that the great Negro boxer earned close to $200,000 with his fists.

Walcott Went Broke

Joe Walcott, absolutely the most remarkable welterweight of all time, is flat and is said to be a pin-setter in Boston now. Walcott lost all of his money gambling and dissipating. For a while he worked as stoker on steamers plying between New York and the Bermuda Islands.

Bob Fitzsimmons, greatest fighter of his pounds the ring ever produced, was penniless when he died. Fitz lost all his money acting as an angel for theatrical companies and staking his "friends."

John L. Sullivan won several fortunes as a fighter and was in sad straits when Frank Hall assumed charge of him and booked him for several years on the vaudeville stage. Through Hall's efforts, Sullivan accumulated enough money to buy a small farm near Boston where he died in comfort.

The original Jack Dempsey, "The Nonpareil," former middleweight champion, and George Dixon, former bantamweight champion, died penniless and were saved from paupers' graves by loyal friends.

Sam Langford must have won close to $300,000 in the ring but gambled away his money and now goes around the country taking lickings from aspiring upstarts who were not good enough to act as sparring partners for him when he was in his prime. Boxing is Sam's only means of livelihood and the veteran Negro pugilist fights for what he can get in order to eat regularly.

Ad Wolgast, one-time lightweight champion, is down and out financially as well as physically. At one time, Wolgast had $200,000 in a bank at Cadillac, Mich., but lost all of it in riotous living and playing the ponies. Battling Nelson, who lost his title to Wolgast, was worth at one time, approximately $250,000 but dropped all of it in bad investments, such as buying real estate in his home town of Hegewisch, Ill., gold mines and backing a sport game called "roko."

"Young Corbett," former featherweight champion, was an inveterate gambler and lost all of his money on games of chance. It was necessary for New York friends to raise a purse with which to send him back to his old home of Denver, Colo., where he is now managing a billiard parlor and refereeing boxing matches.

Jack McAuliffe, former lightweight champion and one of the few title-holders who retired undefeated, never received large purses for his efforts and didn't have much money when he left the ring. He makes a fairly comfortable living, however, by doing an occasional turn in vaudeville and writing boxing stuff for various New York newspapers.

Freddy Welsh Dropped Earnings

Freddie Welsh, another former lightweight champion, made a big wad of money during the five years he held the title but lost most of it in bad investments. He is now doing very well with a health farm at Summit, N. J. Leach Cross made plenty of coin in the ring only to lose it playing Wall street. He was broke a year ago, but is said to have made a cleaning in a Wall street deal last summer and has gone back to California.

ROCKY KANSAS took slow thinking Charlie's $2,500 forfeit. It was all like this: Charlie and Rocky agreed that they would weigh 135 pounds at two o'clock on a certain day in New York. They then posted $2,500 to guarantee same. Rocky weighed OK but Charlie weighed 35 and ¾ pounds (Jewish percentage). Rocky first knocked h—l out of Charlie then took his $2,500 according to agreement. Ike Dorgan shed many tears. Charlie says, "Tell them, Ike, that I was not making weight, my name is Charlie White."

* * *

Kansas took the $2,500 due him and Charley is back where he was several years ago (just ordinary).

* * *

It is only two years ago that nearly every state in the Union decided that Charlie could not fight in their domain.

* * *

Jess Willard is going to fight for the milk fund, but Jess' charges to the babies will be around $50,000.

* * *

Jess is such a nice big fellow who insists that he doesn't care anything about money. Wouldn't he be nice to those babies if he just said, "Babies, here goes my end to your fund"?

* * *

On the other hand the custodians of the milk fund better look out or Big Jess will get the fund.

* * *

They say Jess is getting old.

* * *

Only the good die young. If you don't believe it take a walk through the cemetery and read the epitaphs.

* * *

Jim Tracey says he is going back to the land of the kangaroo, able to say he was knocked out by all the best men in the U. S.

* * *

If it is not one ambition it is another.

* * *

Every big man has an ambition.

* * *

Jim Tracy is signed to box Tom Gibbons.

Battling Siki is again light heavyweight boxing champion according to certain French political boxing officials.

* * *

Johnny Kilbane is not featherweight champion according to a few other double breasted political compromisers, or politically appointed boxing commissioners.

* * *

Johnny Wilson is dethroned according to a few more political gentlemen (some who use the boxing game to cover their real business) and others who don't know any better.

* * *

The day is coming when some pompous politican, with some 300 pounds of excess fat, will arrange with his political constituents to have himself appointed heavyweight champion of the world and get away with it.

Freddy Welsh has gone back to England.

* * *

The next thing we expect to hear is Freddy Welsh fighting for the lightweight championship of England and winning it, then Tex Rickard offering $1,000,000 for him in a return bout with Benny Leonard.

* * *

All things come to those who wait.

* * *

It is a wise father that knows his own child.

* * *

At Philadelphia last Tuesday night, a boxing show was made up as follows: four Italians, three Jews, one Filipino.

* * *

The Irish looked on and wept, and talked of the days of John L., Jem Mace, Nonpareil Jack Dempsey, Corbett and Jeffries.

Beef Is Going Down

By Jay J. Thomas

"What Ho! A foe for Dempsey," the people loudly shout,
Then out into the morgue they go and bring Jess Willard out;
Fearless, fat and forty, but willing kinda a sorter;
Coyly for the loser's end he'll be the lamb for slaughter.

All other boxers have no chance, not even two by two,
But Jessie has been through the mill, we know what he can do;
John Kling and Jimmy Archer were king catchers we confess,
But for stopping all the fast ones none ever equalled Jess.

Bill Brennan, Miske, Gibbons, Greb, Fulton, Harry Wills,
None of the above named could furnish half the thrills;
Maybe they wouldn't do better than overwork the hearse
But after that Toledo thing, they couldn't do much worse.

He wasn't in condition, he loudly wails that day,
But the dear deluded public still was forced to pay.
If we're to judge the future by the past we're much vexed
And haven't any assurance that he'll be fit the next.

He declared himself the champion and knew just what to do;
Had he not fought and won the crown, he would do the training too.
But when the super socker swung swats that made him blink,
Jess very soon decided he wasn't in the pink.

"Boxers liken not unto wine, they don't improve in age;
They don't go on like Tennyson's Brook." wisely quoth the sage;
But if Jessie only seeks the glory, not the gain,
They will surely draw a record house in sunshine or in rain.

Give Jack as befits a champ, the rest to charity's sweet sake,
Then toss them in and ring the bell—on with the game of put and take;
Jess may be the man he was in the golden days of yore,
But extra padding should be brought to reinforce the floor.

Hot Shots of Boxing News from Chicago

IN THE MIDST of all this fistic furore started by the local Law and Order League, came the announcement of a Tom Gibbons and Jim Tracey match. The odd thing about this affair, Eddie Kane is the manager of Gibbons and his partner Eddie Long is the matchmaker of the East Chicago Arena where the match was to be staged. Luckily for the local boxing situation it was wisely called off. Kane and Long with their headquarters in Chicago should be the ones to set an example in this vicinity as the East Chicago club depends mostly on a Chicago turn-out and by giving them a Gibbons and Tracey fiasco they would ruin the loyal minds of the fans that are trying to bring the sport into favor around this locality.

* * *

GIBBONS is trying to prove his right for a match with Dempsey with the New York Commission ruling that he is too small. Gibbons can prove his worth against a good big man by tackling Bill Tate. The latter, it seems, can't get Wills or anyone else to step into the roped arena with him and it's a shame that a clever fellow like Tate can't get any consideration from the promoters in their survey for big fellows and yet they dig into the scrap heap for Willard. Tate is a worthy opopnent for any heavyweight as such tough fighters as Wills, Morris, Langford and Miske will verify. Tate isn't asking for a chance to prove anything—he has already done so. Tom should give Tate a chance and prove that he is worthy of a bout with Dempsey.

* * *

UP TO THIS writing the boxing game is practically closed in Chicago, pending the result of Promoter Jim Mullen's attempt to fight the ban obtained by the Law and Order League in court. Meantime with the East Chicago Arena the closest spot where the Windy City fans can witness legal boxing, Matchmaker Eddie Long can help the cause along by inviting the law enforcers to his club by special invitation and let them witness the "Boxing Exhibition" that he will stage on the 26th. Referring to a "boxing exhibition" we mean the rematch of the Eddie Anderson and Sammy Mandell bout that was held in Minneapolis last week with the reports of the battle differing in the local papers keeping the fans in doubt as to the real winner. The match will show lots of clever boxing but there is not likely to be a knockdown or a knockout which make a prizefight in the eyes of the narrow-minded reformers.

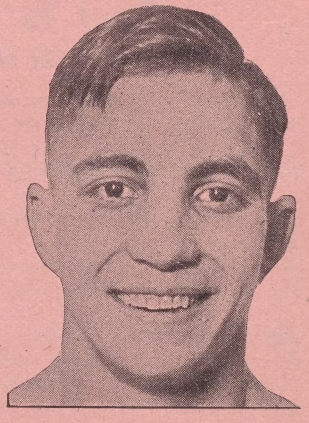
* * *

CHARLEY WHITE, back from New York after his unsuccessful effort to extract his $2,500 forfeit from the manager of Rocky Kansas, publicly stated to the newspapermen that he let Benny Leonard, Young Brown, Ever Hammer, Jack Britton and Bobby Barrett come in over weight but he has never taken an opponent's forfeit. But maybe "Slow Thinking Charlie" can recall this paragraph clipped from the "Buffalo Express":

"In the days when White was boxing Jimmy Duffy in Buffalo he never failed to collect forfeit for overweight on the part of the Lockporter, and Duffy was usually overweight. When White was in Buffalo last, to box Frank Schoell, he forced Schoell to steam off on the day of battle the last fraction to make 135, on threat of no fight if he didn't do it."

* * *

HAROLD SMITH has a name that is soft and romantic but a ring style that is hard and wicked and utterly devoid of gentleness as was demonstrated by his brilliant win over the fast stepping Eddie Anderson here last week. Anderson agreed to scale 118 pounds but came in two pounds over the mark. Two critics gave it to Smith, one to Anderson and three draws. Smith is a natural 114-pounder and his style is pretty to watch. He has speed, cleverness and grit and careful grooming will bring him close to a championship match before long.



HAROLD SMITH

* * *

MODERN PAL MOORE, as he terms himself, is fighting mad these days. Pal can't understand why he can't get a reply from Lynch, Villa or Tremaine. He claims that he has the promoters that are willing to stage the contests and also wants to know the reason why Villa asked Frank Mulkern of Milwaukee for $7,000, and after he was tendered the offer he never replied to the last wire. Boston has Moore's signature for a Frankie Genaro contest and is waiting the latter's acceptance.

* * *

JIMMY NIKOL, a Windy City lad unheralded and unsung, came came into the fistic limelight through his clever milling in the Wisconsin rings. It's another case of a home town boy going way to make good as his battle with Jack Zwick and Johnny Tillman have proven. He tackles the hard hitting Bud Logan in Milwaukee on Feb. 26th. Much credit can be given to the untiring efforts of his pal and manager, Leo Fornaciara.

* * *

JOHNNY KLESCH, Cleveland middleweight, is around these diggings and his workouts stamp him as a likely looking socker. Promoter Jim Mullen signed him up to tackle Jock Malone early in March.

* * *

JOE LEVY, former manager of the Mexican flash, Joe Rivers, is around town with his whirlwind feather, Benny Levy of St. Louis. Manager Joe regrets to state that as soon as Jack Lawler, the lightweight and PeeWee Kaiser, the bantam left his stable they both felt the taste of a knockout. According to Joe "Boxers come and go but I still go on in twenty-sixth year in the fistic game."

* * *

PATSY FLANNIGAN, the fighting Irishman of Joe Keefe's stable, is now ready after a layoff. Flannigan is wanted by the Milwaukee promoters for a battle with Joe Sanger, and on the same date Omaha wants his services. Keefe's battler is a pleasing mixer and is only a youngster improving with every start. Mike Dundee and Flannigan is the sweetest thing around here at present and Promoter Jim Mullen wants that match for March 17th, St. Patrick's day.

* * *

FRANKIE OSNER, the Tulsa bantam, is having trouble getting work around here. He is clever mitt artist and only needs a chance to mingle with Anderson, Mandell, Smith and Moore. Joe Keefe has taken him over in his stable which now consists of Flannigan, Kid Bandy a feather, and Al Thomas, a welter.

* * *

BATTLING WILLIAMS is a lightweight that is coming to the fore rapidly. Ben Rhams, his manager, has offers from Indianapolis, Milwaukee. Detroit, since his kayo over Jack O'Toole, the Minneapolis boy.

* * *

BUD TAYLOR, the Terre Haute terrior, clashes with Boston Johnny Sheppard on Feb. 27th at Indianapolis, and then hikes to the big city for his appearance in one of the preliminaries to the Gibbons-McAuliffe combat on March 19.

* * *

FRANKIE GARCIA will find a tough argument when he collides with the junior lightweight, Andy Chaney in Youngstown on March 9. Chaney is a big fellow and can't possibly scale the 122 pound mark which Garcia wants him to make.

Breezy Broadway Boxing Bits

By Arthur T. Lumley

SENATOR JIMMY WALKER will be the power behind the new boxing commission's throne.

* * *

It's quite evident that Gov. Al Smith will allow the popular senator to practically run the whole shooting match.

Arthur T. Lumley

* * *

Walker is the father of the present boxing law and quite an enthusiastic fight fan.

* * *

He will undoubtedly reorganize the board when he puts through his new boxing bill.

* * *

Senator Walker is absolutely in favor of a Dempsey-Wills combat in this state.

* * *

And openly declares against Chairman Muldoon for barring this match.

* * *

So it looks as if the big Brown Panther will get a shot at the white champion after awhile.

* * *

Tex Rickard will endeavor to pit a couple of white contenders against Dempsey in the interim.

* * *

No matter how much the sport scribes pan Willard, Rickard is fully confident that Jess is still a formidable fighter.

* * *

Quite a host of the old Broadway fans are of the same opinion.

* * *

For many of them are willing to bet that Willard will beat Floyd Johnson.

* * *

They figure that Floyd has no skillful defense and can be easily hit.

* * *

And if Willard is in any sort of shape he should win.

* * *

The wise birds don't take much stock in that $1,000,000 offer for Dempsey to battle Firpo at Buenos Aires.

* * *

They look upon it as a ballyhoo for the Argentine champion.

* * *

There's likely another string attached to this big extravagant proposition.

* * *

Anyway, it's quite a fine boom for the coming combat between Firpo and Brennan here.

* * *

But if Brennan defeats Firpo how the latter's rep will flop.

* * *

However, it's quite possible that Brennan may be rather easy with the South American.

* * *

Willard doesn't appear so old and fat in his workouts in the gym.

* * *

But Big Jess still carries considerable superfluous flesh.

* * *

The big howl over the larceny ticket speculation at the Garden has rather suddenly collapsed.

* * *

By some hook or crook the investigation of the rank evil has been sidetracked.

* * *

Even the New York Evening World has ceased its attack upon the avaricious speculators and others.

* * *

Some fine diplomat has evidently hypnotized the indignant howlers.

* * *

For the same old speculators will rob the fans again at the next big show.

* * *

While the profound commission sits back looking on in dead silence.

* * *

The $10 a round rule for preliminary boxers is a hard hit to the smaller clubs.

* * *

Most of them cannot afford to pay $240 for a 12-round preliminary bout.

* * *

While that amount is soft and easy for the big Garden management.

* * *

Not so many moons ago the Garden gave $3,000 or more for one of those prelims.

* * *

So it does not seem that every rule is made for the benefit of the Garden and to the detriment of the smaller clubs.

* * *

But the Garden really has no competition.

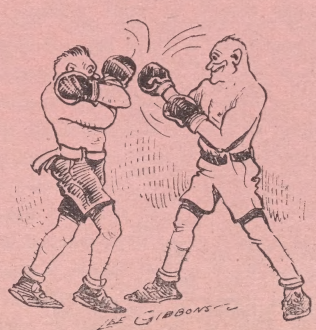
* * *

It absolutely controls the boxing situation in greater New York City.

* * *

"Might is right," in politics and war, especially.

* * *



Joe Jacobs, manager of Mike McTigue, fears that Siki will run out of his match with McTigue.

* * *

The bout is scheduled to take place in Dublin on March 17th.

* * *

But now that Siki has been reinstated by the French Federation of Boxing, Siki sees more money here in a conflict with Harry Greb.

* * *

If McTigue should happen to knock off Siki in Dublin, good night!

* * *

That would settle Siki as a big attraction in this country.

* * *

Benny Leonard is anxious for a crack at Mickey Walker for the welterweight crown.

* * *

Leonard figures that Mickey would be easier to outbox than Jack Britton was.

* * *

Britton has offered Leonard all sorts of tempting inducements for another smack at the lightweight champion.

* * *

But Benny doesn't seem to fancy taking any more of Jack's boxing lessons.

* * *

In the meantime, Sailor Friedman is pleading for an opportunity to clash with Leonard.

* * *

They say that Harry Greb spends too many festive evenings at Jimmy Kelly's refreshery.

* * *

It behooves Harry to be in fine fettle for his return match with Gene Tunney on Feb. 28th.

* * *

As Gene intends to make a desperate effort to regain the light heavyweight title on that occasion.

* * *

Many experts imagine that Greb is slipping back a bit.

* * *

In his fight with Tommy Loughran recently, Harry failed to show any effective hitting power.

* * *

He must have landed a thousand taps and slaps but no real punch.

* * *

It looked as if Greb merely wanted to outslap Loughran and save him for a future frolic.

* * *

Wildman Gould is certainly the champion clown of the ring.

* * *

Burlesque boxing bouts seem to amuse a certain crowd of fans nowadays.

* * *

A certain well known champion is said to be making more money bootlegging than he can by boxing.

MARCH 3, 1923

Vol. 4 — 15 — No. 13

JESS WILLARD is at it again. He's out, he says, to prove that he is in condition, that his ambition is to win back his championship and that the title is the only thing he is after, the money being no object.

This all sounds funny to one who knew the big Kansan when he was titleholder.

When big Jess was champion he made it quite plain that he cared nothing about the championship and did not care to box. He was quoted time after time as being just a home man and almost a victim of circumstances in the boxing game.

During big Jess' reign as champion there was no one who pulled more boners. During the war he time after time refused to box on benefit shows for the Red Cross and other organizations that were assisting the boys who went over and sacrificed their lives on the other side.

We don't think Willard will deny any of this. Neither will he deny that it was time and again said by the press that he was just a home man and a victim of circumstances in the boxing game, and that he would retire undefeated.

The facts are that big Jess never did much of anything during his title days or any other time that he was not paid for. He travelled in a circus as an attraction at a big salary.

He boxed twice. One bout was with old Frank Moran when he received $47,000 for ten slow rounds in New York City. He then entered motion pictures for a big sum, and then for $100,000 he agreed to box Jack Dempsey. Jess was knocked down six times in three rounds and was counted out in his chair refusing to fight any longer.

Now, four years later, he and his press agents are out trying to gather some more money from the public for the much heralded family man of title days.

Jess now says all he wants to do is fight. He wants his title back, don't care anything about the money.

If that is true why is he receiving the big bunch of dough from the Babies' Milk Fund for his end with Floyd Johnson.

We are not suggesting that Willard should work for nothing or that he should take less than he is getting for anything he has or does. On the contrary we hope he gets plenty.

But why press agent the idea to the public that Willard doesn't want the money and that all he wants is a chance at the title?

It's the old stuff all over again. As we sum it up Jess Willard is through. He's too old to fight. He never was a great fighter and it's too late for him to start now. He is again imposing on the public for what he can get in cash and is kidding the public when he says "All I want is a chance at the title."

Jack Dempsey will knock Jess for 40 rows of ash cans in less time than Jess could spell his own name. It's all the well known bull.

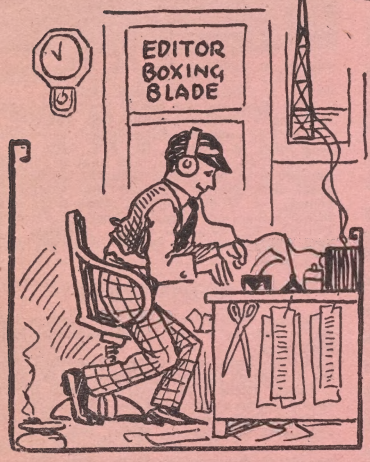
BOXING NEWS



PARIS, FRANCE.—Battling Siki is making ambitious plans. Brouilhet, his manager, says that after the Senegalese's bout with Mike McTigue, American middleweight, in Dublin on March 17, he will issue a challenge for the light-heavyweight championship of France and then will seek to take on Marcel Nills, the French heavyweight champion.

Brouilhet says that Siki will go to America in May to fight a man who has not yet been selected. After that bout he hopes to meet Carpentier, Greb and Jack Dempsey.

The suit brought by Siki against the French Boxing Federation because of its disqualifying him as a fighter after the Carpentier bout was withdrawn from court, Siki being satisfied with his reinstatement. The countersuit the federation had brought against Siki was likewise withdrawn.

ROLAND TODD BEATS TED LEWIS

London, Eng.—Roland Todd, former lightweight champion of Europe, won the decision on points in his bout with Ted "Kid" Lewis, at Albert Hall, Feb. 15th. They fought twenty rounds.

The fight was for the British title held by Lewis, who was a slight favorite. They fought some months ago when Lewis was given a decision, the propriety of which was widely discussed, many of the spectators claiming Todd was entitled to a draw. Todd led throughout. After the first round the referee constantly intervened to break Lewis' clinches.

Todd's manager announced that he will take Todd to America to challenge Johnny Wilson, of Boston, for the world's middleweight championship.

CRIQUI TO SAIL FOR AMERICA ON MARCH 10

Paris, France—Eugene Criqui, European featherweight champion, will leave for New York from Havre on March 10, accompanied by his manager, M. Eudeline, to begin training for his world's championship battle against Johnny Kilbane in New York on Memorial Day.

JOHNNY TILLMAN GIVES PINK MITCHELL HARD FIGHT

Johnny Tillman, weighing 139, and fighting for the 140-pound Junior Welterweight Championship at Milwaukee, Feb. 13th, knocked Champion Pinkey Mitchell down twice, once in the sixth and again in the tenth. The fight was one of the best staged in Milwaukee since the famous Papke-Ketchell affair some 17 years ago. It was a slam bang fight from first bell to the last, Tillman trying for a knockout up to the last second of the bout. Johnny was hurt in the second by a hard right on the jaw, but weathered the round and came back in the third and nearly put Mitchell out with a long right to the chin. From then on it was anyone's fight, Mitchell going down in the sixth and kissing the canvas again in the tenth. The auditorium was filled to the street. At popular prices the gate drew $14,960. Newspaper decisions were divided. The Milwaukee Journal sports editor, Sam Levy, called it a draw. The Sentinel, Wisconsin News and Leader gave Mitchell a shade. All agreed it was the greatest battle seen in Milwaukee for years.

Jess Willard Called Hopeless After An Exhibition Bout

Jess Willard's tour of the country in exhibition bouts to show the public that he is fit to meet Jack Dempsey for the world's championship, did not get a very auspicious start. A Detroit, Mich., paper describes his appearance there as follows:

Jess Willard, aspirant for the heavyweight championship, did not show much of anything in his four-round exhibition here with Joe McGann. Willard appeared many hundred miles from being in form for a titular bout or any other kind.

BOXING THRIVING IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wisconsin has had more boxing shows from Jan. 1st to March 1st than it has ever staged in the history of the game. All shows have drawn well and some of the greatest fights ever staged any place have been put on. The Bud Logan-Pink Mitchell drew $14,960. Both were two weeks later Johnny Tillman and Pink Mitchell drew $14,690. Both were great fights. All other shows have been drawing from $4,000 to $8,000. Prospects are that shows will be held every six days until May. The big auditorium is closed until April due to the National Bowling Congress now being staged there. However, Otto Borchert and Frank Mulkern will continue to run in the small auditorium hall that seats about 1,600. Jimmie Delaney will continue to operate at the Empress theatre while Tom Andrews will run as before at the Castle Gardens, seating about 7,000. The knocking out of Danny Edwards at Brooklyn a few nights ago by Harry Gordon was no great surprise. Edwards has been on the verge of a K. O. more than once in the last three months. A year ago he had every prospect of being a second Dixon; today he is back to the prelim class and on the way out.

JACK DELANEY WILL TRY COMEBACK

Jack Delaney of Bridgeport is to meet Augie Ratner of New York in the latter city the night of March 3. It will be a return bout and an endeavor of Delaney to get back into the forefront again. It was Ratner who stopped him with a kayo when he was going on high about a year ago. This will be Delaney's first bout since he left his old manager, Al Jennings, the man who brought him out.

MASON PUT UP GOOD FIGHT AGAINST VILLA

Pancho Villa, American flyweight champion, knocked out Frankie Mason, former champion, in five rounds at Boston, Feb. 13th. In the fifth round Villa dropped Mason twice first for the count of nine and the next time out for the full count.

It was rather a hectic fray while it lasted with the winner far from a matter of certainty up to the time of the kayo. In the fourth round Mason caught Villa with a right to the jaw that sent the boy from Manila reeling to the ropes. Had the American been able to follow up his advantage there was a chance of a victory for him right there, but he was not. He demonstrated, however, that Villa, hard and aggressive fighter that he is, is tender about the jaws and cannot assimilate a blow any too well.

ALEX HART TOO CLEVER FOR GEORGE CHANEY

Alex Hart beat George Chaney again at Philadelphia on Feb. 12th in the same manner that he beat him last time they met. Usually when a boxer meets a slugger in an eight-round bout, the boxer wins and Hart won. Chaney was ferocious from first bell to last. Hart stung him, balked him and tied him up in knots up to the seventh. In the last two sessions, Chaney got home a few healthy wallops to the head which slowed Jimmie Dougherty's boy down, but his margin in the first six rounds was sufficient to cop the popular verdict.

Eastern Boxing News and Comment

By Clarence D. Gillespie

NEW YORK CITY—Whether or not Carl Tremaine of Cleveland fouled Irish Johnny Curtin of Jersey City in their twelve-round battle at Madison Square Garden the other night is a question that will provide food for argument among boxing fans for many a month to come. The argument probably will not subside until the boys are rematched, talk of which is already in the air. The alleged foul was struck after two minutes and thirty seconds of fighting in the sixth round. It can be truthfully said that a large majority of those at the ringside hold to the opinion that the blow, delivered with the left hand, caught Curtin squarely in the groin.

Clarence S. Gillespie

When the blow was struck the Jersey City boy fell to the canvas and writhed in agony while Referee Patsy Haley, apparently having no idea that there had been any foul, started to count over him. He stopped counting as Curtin, his face distorted with pain, protested that he had been hit low. The fallen fighter was assisted to his corner by Tremaine and Haley and the latter summoned the club physician, Dr. Walker. A superficial examination was made and the doctor was apparently no more convinced than was Haley that the punch was foul.

When Curtin informed Haley that it would be impossible for him to continue the referee ordered Joe Humphreys, the announcer, to tell the crowd that the decision had been awarded to Tremaine. The crowd also missed the punch, judging from the razzing that Curtin received as he staggered out of the ring. Curtin was again examined later in his dressing room by another physician who said that there could be little doubt that the blow that incapacitated Curtin landed below the belt.

Haley, when the excitement subsided, insisted that the blow was fair.

Curtin seemed to be in a fair way to win when the blow came that ended the fight. He was rapidly cutting away the slight lead that Tremaine had established in the first two rounds and was giving the western bantam a fine lacing. Tremaine had started with a great burst of speed and hard hitting, but under the force of Curtin's attack in the fourth and fifth rounds he was rapidly losing his speed, hitting power and accuracy. Several of the Jersey City boy's wallops shook him down to his heels and rocked him off his balance. Heavy slams to the stomach jarred Tremaine and caused him to retreat along the ropes with Curtin in hot pursuit.

In the sixth round, up until the blow was put over that ended the battle, Curtin was leading in that session. He came out of each fierce flurry looking better and stronger. Curtin said afterward that he would be ready to go back at Tremaine within two weeks. Tremaine entered the ring a decided favorite in the betting but the price shortened as Curtin continued to improve.

A great exhibition of gameness was given in the semi-final between Sonny Smith of Brooklyn and Danny Lee of Harlem. Smith broke his right hand early in the fight and that weapon was virtually helpless after the second. In the tenth the pain became so severe that Smith declared that he could not go on. The fight was stopped and the decision awarded to Lee. When Sonny reached his dressing room he fainted. Working only with his left hand, however, he had Lee backing up most of the time. He cracked him solidly on the chin repeatedly and would probably have won easily if he had been able to use his right.

The fights were witnessed by more than 13,000 persons and the receipts were in excess of $41,000.

Pancho Villa, the Filipino boxer, and Frankie Genaro are to battle in Madison Square Garden on March 1 for the flyweight championship, providing the New Jersey commission lifts the ban on Genaro. The latter has been under suspension in New Jersey for several months, and until the Jersey bosses reinstate him Frankie cannot appear in the Garden against anyone. However, the tip is out that everything will be fixed in time for the bout to go on.

Harry Galfund, a recent graduate from the amateur ranks, is bowling them over in great shape. He recently defeated Earl France in a six-round bout at the Garden. He, being under age, is only allowed to box six rounds in New York state, which is a hardship as the boy is really a star bout fighter. He will be heard from meeting the top-notchers before long. He weighs 138.

Ray Pryel, Pittsburgh lightweight, beat Johnny Donnelly in ten rounds at Uniontown, Pa., Feb. 15th. Donnelly was credited with beating Rocky Kansas at Erie, Pa., two months ago, but was outclassed by Pryel throughout the bout.

Tom Andrews' Timely Ring Gossip

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Southern California is known now as the "playground of the world," and it is not far from the truth. Twenty years ago many eastern people came to this part of the country to get away from the rigors of the winters. They would remain a few months and then return home. Now they are flocking in by the hundreds of thousands and making it their permanent home. With the influx of all the eastern people of means came a boom of business and naturally a wonderful boost for sports of all kinds followed. The "movie" colony is made up of fully 80 per cent sport followers of some kind. With the wonderful climate it is not surprising that California turns out such stars as May Sutton and Johnston, tennis champions; Charley Paddock, world's greatest sprinter; Frances Cowells, swimmer; James J. Jeffries; James J. Corbett, Willie Ritchie, Tom Sharkey, Abe Attell and a host of other prominent boxers; great baseball and football players, etc.

Tom S. Andrews

The killing of the twenty-round boxing law may have pleased a few, but it is by no means universal, and right now efforts are being made to pass a new boxing bill calling for eight or ten-round contests.

* * *

The people of Los Angeles are amusement mad. The numerous theatres and movie houses are packed every night, and the boxing arenas, three in number, are jammed every week to witness the four-round bouts which are permitted and satisfy some because they cannot get anything better. However, the followers of the sport, the real boxing fans, would prefer to have a law patterned after the Wisconsin or New York law. At Jack Doyle's arena in Vernon and the American Legion club in Hollywood you can see them packed to the rafters every week. What would they do if real matches were permitted.

Dick Ferris, former Chicago and St. Paul promoter of sporting events, is now engaged in promoting a big race track proposition at Culver City near the movie center. The city council has passed favorably on the plans and it is expected to have everything in running order by next fall. In connection with the racing plan, Mr. Ferris proposes to stage high class boxing events, providing, of course, that no further opposition appears. Dick likes the boxing game and figures that if the legislature passes a bill permitting ten-round contests that he will be able to bid for the best bouts in the country, the same as Jim Cofforth did at San Francisco in the good old days. If the project materializes, Ferris would not be averse to bidding for a big match with Jack Dempsey as main spoke in the wheel. There is no doubt that a contest of that kind would easily draw half a million or more here, this being Jack's home town. It is not generally known, but Dempsey has property under option and otherwise to the extent of over a million dollars.

* * *

The defeat of Charley White by Rocky Kansas of Buffalo at the Garden, New York, proved a surprise here. The fans thought White a sure winner. Both Joe Benjamin and Tommy O'Brien, lightweights who have been wintering here, were of the opinion that the weight took all the "pep" out of White, and that he could not do himself justice.

"Taking off a pound or two the way Charley did was enough to put him on the short end," said O'Brien. "I would like nothing better than a chance to meet Kansas, and will challenge him as soon as I return east. I know Benjamin feels the same way about it, as he informed me that he would soon go east for a crack at Leonard, but wanted Kansas first."

* * *

Dandy Dillon, the Minneapolis featherweight, who came out here a few months ago with Jack Josephs, has run the gauntlet here, and will leave this week for the northwest, starting at Portland or Seattle, and returning east in the spring. Dillon has been very successful around here and plans later to get on with Sammy Mandell or Frankie Garcia in Chicago and Joey Sanger, Ernie Goozeman or Sammy Creden in Milwaukee. Later he intends going to New York.

* * *

The sad ending of Andy Thomas, New York boxer, should be a warning to boxers and their managers about making low weight, when they know it cannot be done without weakening. There is little doubt that Thomas was badly weakened by taking off so much weight to make the agreed poundage, and as a result collapsed from exhaustion.

FEW BOXERS SAVE MONEY

Cross is practicing dentistry in Los Angeles in order not to cut too deeply into his bankroll.

Jack Root, one of the leading light heavyweights fifteen years ago, broke into the moving picture game when that industry was in its infancy and is now rated as a millionaire. He owns a string of high class movie theatres in California. George Gardner, a bitter rival of Root for light heavy honors, invested his ring earnings in a string of cigar stores in Chicago and has prospered.

Frankie Neil, former bantam champion, was a good money-getter in his day, but lost it all. The last heard of Neil, he was purser on a steamer plying between San Francisco and Honolulu.

$10,000 or Death!

Millionaire Blair had laughed at the first threat of the blackmailer. The next night his lumber yard burned to the ground. A $5,000 reward brought a score of detectives, but not a clew. Then came Wilson, the Finger Print Expert. He examined the death letter. A few minutes in his laboratory—a few more at his files.

"Pick up Markaroff," he said to the chief, "and send the reward to my office." How did he do it? Easy enough for the Finger Print Expert. He is the leader, the cream of detectives. Almost daily the newspapers tell of his marvelous exploits.

Also feature stories describing ring battles of the old bare knuckle days, as well as all current boxing contests.
